

TORONTO POLICE SERVICES BOARD

Chief Administrative Officer

The Toronto Police Services Board is a seven-member civilian board responsible for the governance and oversight of the Toronto Police Service (TPS), the fourth-largest municipal police service in North America. With over 4,800 officers and 2,500 civilian employees, TPS takes pride in its dedication to keeping Toronto the best and safest place to be. The Service's well-earned reputation as a world leader in policing is a reflection of a commitment to excellence, innovation, quality leadership, and ongoing professional development.

The Board is seeking to appoint a Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) who will support the Chief in inspiring the trust and confidence of the Service and the communities it serves by maintaining and improving the quality of life and level of safety in the City of Toronto.

The successful candidate will lead over 400+ staff members, with a multidisciplinary portfolio that comprises three pillars: Legal Services, including Prosecution Services; Financial & Business Management, including Accounting Services, Budget & Financial Analysis, Facilities Management, Fleet & Materials Management, and Purchasing Services; and People & Culture, including Employee Services, Equity, Inclusion & Human Rights, Labour Relations, People Strategy & Performance, Talent Acquisition, Toronto Police College, Wellness, and Workforce Planning & Insight.

To be considered you must bring a track record of progressively senior leadership experience ideally gained in a large and complex metropolitan police service, or a large regional, provincial or national police service, or a large public or private sector organization.

As a member of TPS' Executive Command Team, you have an exceptional opportunity to play a vital role in leading a complex, demanding and dynamic organization. You must be forward thinking and outward-looking, able to anticipate the changing needs of Toronto's communities while seeking continuous improvement in order to achieve better outcomes for the Service and the communities it serves. You demonstrate an ability for providing strategic leadership, direction and oversight for general business, administration, and support functions (HR and Finance) with the goal of ensuring that the Service meets Police Services Board requirements and policies, and operations are properly supported administratively.

An outstanding communicator with a proven ability to maintain genuine and meaningful partnerships, you have demonstrated skill in working collaboratively with members of a service, Board, key governmental and community stakeholders and can build relationships based on transparency and trust with the many communities that make up the multi-cultural mosaic of the City of Toronto.

You are a role model for inclusive and inspirational leadership that is consistent with the principles and values of a professional, progressive and modern police service united in a culture of continuous improvement and corporate service excellence. You have demonstrated a passion and commitment to supporting staff by creating a highly inclusive environment of equity, integrity and fairness where decisions are made and applied on a consistent basis. You are a respected team leader and mentor committed to the ongoing professionalization of a service to respond to the evolving nature and public expectations of policing. You set high standards for yourself yet recognize and value differences in approaches to work and you care about the mental well-being of all others. You respect and are committed to modern and progressive independent civilian police governance and oversight, and see a productive working relationship with the Toronto Police Services Board as an important component of driving progress on police reform and modernization.

In accordance with the policy of the Board, all candidates must conform to the Toronto Police Service's core values and the Board will conduct a comprehensive background check of all candidates under consideration.
